We can quickly assist to mitigate a contagion.

When there is an infectious disease breakout like COVID-19, you need a professional to take the appropriate steps to clean and apply the appropriate disinfectant to contain the spread. DECON-1 is an industry leader in infectious disease cleaning and disinfecting services.

With the worldwide spread of COVID-19 a mass decontamination must be handled by professionals. Most every day janitorial companies are not properly trained or certified to perform proper infectious disease disinfection. DECON-1 is lead by a trained and Certified Hazardous Materials Specialist with over 27 years of experience in the Fire Service. We have trained all our personnel to meet stringent guidelines for treating facilities in the disinfection of all Novel viruses.

The product that we use is EPA certified and is on the official list of substances approved by the CDC and EPA for treating against COVID-19. Our product was developed by Sandia National Laboratories and used extensively in both military and commercial applications for the decontamination and disinfection for over 20 years. The product is a surfactant (soap) and hydrogen peroxide with a hydrogen peroxide booster. It is less hazardous and more effective than a bleach solution, many commercial disinfectants, and more effective than soap and water. Our product can be used on porous and nonporous surfaces and is approved by the EPA for use in food handling establishments.

DECON-1 uses full personal protective equipment and respirator protection for our team of trained technicians.

Honesty, Loyalty, Service, and Privacy are the driving forces behind every service we provide. Rest assured that DECON-1 will step into any situation and assure that your property will be free of any emerging contagion.
